DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 21-28, 39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dan Bensky et al., Hson-Mou Chang et al., Chu et al., CN 1047806 or EP 441278.

Applicant argues that the references do not expressly state that the extracts are proteins but these proteins that applicant claims, come from the same plant as shown by the references. What is isolated is a plant extract or the protein from the plant, Astragalus membranaceus. The characteristics of these extracts are inherent to the extract and the plant it comes from. Thus, the claimed characteristics of the protein from the plant are inherent to the plant and since the same plant is extracted as claimed, then the same protein with the same characteristics is yielded. The references teach using standard techniques for purification and thus the extracts will have the same characteristics as in applicant's invention. The argument that the proteins yielded will be different is simply not true. The same plant was used and thus the extract will contain the same protein. How could it be different? Unless the plant is different in the prior art versus applicant's invention it is not possible for the protein from the same plant to be different.

Applicant has not established that the products in the references and that of the instant claims are allegedly distinct from each other.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 21-28, 39 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Dan Bensky et al., Hson-Mou Chang et al., Chu et al., CN 1047806 or EP 441278.

The teachings of the references are above. The claims are obvious since the extract is purified by known techniques. It would clearly have been within the purview of the skilled artisan to purify the claimed extract using standard biochemical extraction techniques for plants to yield the claimed invention.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
